VibeFinder Song Guide

An in-depth knowledge document for retrieval-augmented music recommendations

20 songs - 20 genre notes - 9 activity guides

About this document

This guide describes every song in the VibeFinder catalog (data/songs.csv) in depth: its sound, vocals, structure, lyric themes, when to play it and when to skip it, how it compares with similar songs, and direct answers to common questions. All songs and artists are fictional and were created for a classroom project. Feature values come directly from the catalog; activity playlists were produced by running the VibeFinder recommender itself, so this guide never contradicts the app.

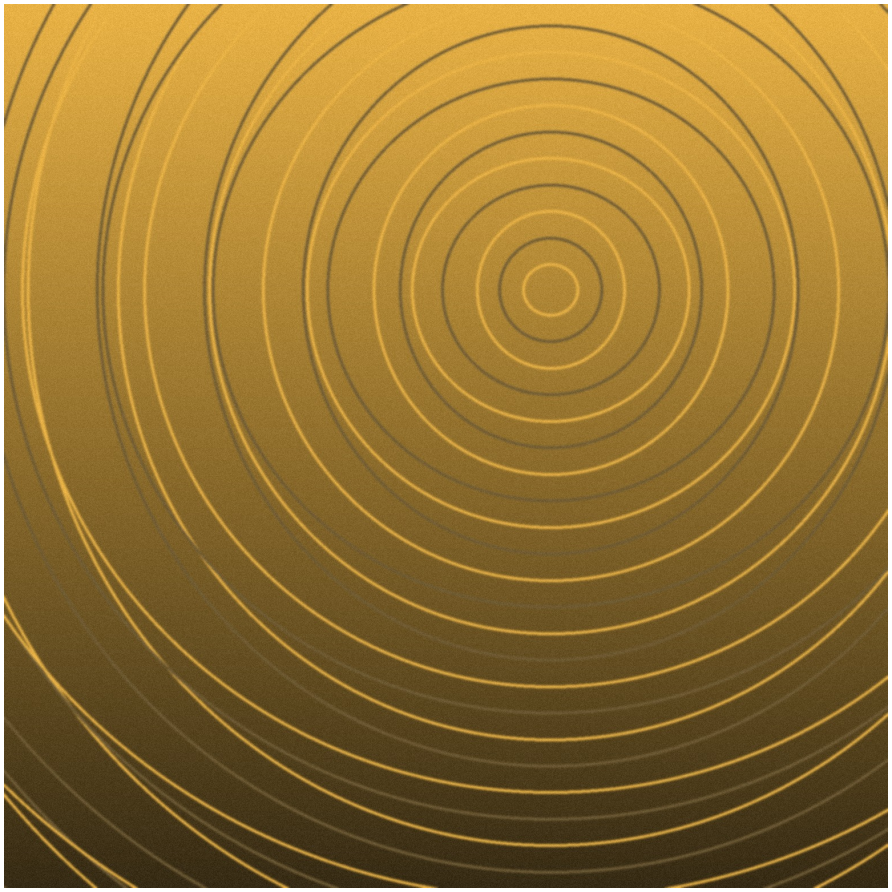
How VibeFinder uses it: the retriever extracts the text and splits it into one chunk per song, from the line 'Song: <title>' to the line 'End of song: <title>'. When a request names a song ('songs like Storm Runner'), the agent copies that song's genre, mood and energy. When a request names a sound ('piano', 'fiddle', 'no vocals'), songs whose Sound or Vocals lines mention it get a bonus, and the matching sections are passed to the language model as evidence.

Contents: 1. Catalog at a glance - 2. Songs in depth - 3. Activity playlists - 4. Genre guide - 5. Mood map - 6. Glossary

Chapter 1: Catalog at a glance

#	Title	Artist	Genre	Mood	Energy	BPM	Acoustic	Vocals
1	Sunrise City	Neon Echo	pop	happy	0.82	118	0.18	yes
2	Midnight Coding	LoRoom	lofi	chill	0.42	78	0.71	none
3	Storm Runner	Voltline	rock	intense	0.91	152	0.10	yes
4	Library Rain	Paper Lanterns	lofi	chill	0.35	72	0.86	none
5	Gym Hero	Max Pulse	pop	intense	0.93	132	0.05	yes
6	Spacewalk Thoughts	Orbit Bloom	ambient	chill	0.28	60	0.92	none
7	Coffee Shop Stories	Slow Stereo	jazz	relaxed	0.37	90	0.89	none
8	Night Drive Loop	Neon Echo	synthwave	moody	0.75	110	0.22	none
9	Focus Flow	LoRoom	lofi	focused	0.40	80	0.78	none
10	Rooftop Lights	Indigo Parade	indie pop	happy	0.76	124	0.35	yes
11	Concrete Crown	Kilo Verse	hip-hop	confident	0.78	94	0.12	yes
12	Moonlit Sonata Redux	Clara Vey	classical	melancholy	0.22	66	0.97	none
13	Iron Tempest	Graveforge	metal	angry	0.97	168	0.03	yes
14	Dusty Porch Swing	Willa Grange	country	nostalgic	0.52	102	0.68	yes
15	Velvet Hours	Sade Monroe	r&b	romantic	0.48	84	0.40	yes
16	Laser Bloom	Pulse Theory	edm	euphoric	0.95	128	0.04	yes
17	Island Postcard	Roots Harbor	reggae	relaxed	0.55	76	0.45	yes
18	Paper Boats	Juniper Hollow	folk	sad	0.30	88	0.91	yes
19	Crossroads Blue	Eddie Lark	blues	sad	0.45	70	0.62	yes
20	Starlight Sprint	NOVA9	k-pop	happy	0.88	126	0.10	yes

Chapter 2: Songs in depth



Cover art for Sunrise City: generated from its mood (happy), energy (0.82) and acousticness (0.18).

Song: Sunrise City

Artist: Neon Echo

Genre: pop | Mood: happy

Energy: 0.82 (very high) | Tempo: 118 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.84 (very high) | Danceability: 0.79 (high) | Acousticness: 0.18 (very low)

Description: A bright, sun-soaked pop anthem built on glossy synths, a bouncing bassline and a big sing-along chorus about leaving the city at dawn. It feels like windows-down optimism.

Sound: glossy synth pads, bright synth lead, bouncing electric bass, punchy programmed drums, handclaps, layered backing vocals

Vocals: lead female vocal with a big multi-tracked sing-along chorus

Structure: short synth intro, two verses, a pre-chorus that builds, a soaring chorus, a stripped-down bridge with just bass and vocals, and a final double chorus with extra harmonies

Lyric themes: Leaving the city at dawn with friends, the skyline turning gold, and the feeling that the whole day is still ahead.

Listen when: road trips, getting ready to go out, sunny mornings, any time you want an instant mood lift

Skip when: you need to concentrate or wind down; the chorus is designed to grab attention

Good for: party, road trip

Similar songs: Starlight Sprint (k-pop), Rooftop Lights (indie pop), Laser Bloom (edm)

Comparisons: Compared with Sunrise City, Starlight Sprint is more energetic (0.88 vs 0.82), k-pop instead of pop. Compared with Sunrise City, Rooftop Lights is less energetic (0.76 vs 0.82), more acoustic, indie pop instead of pop.

Listening tip: The bridge drops almost everything out, so the final chorus hits harder on good speakers or in a car.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Sunrise City good for studying? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.82) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Sunrise City good for workout? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.82) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

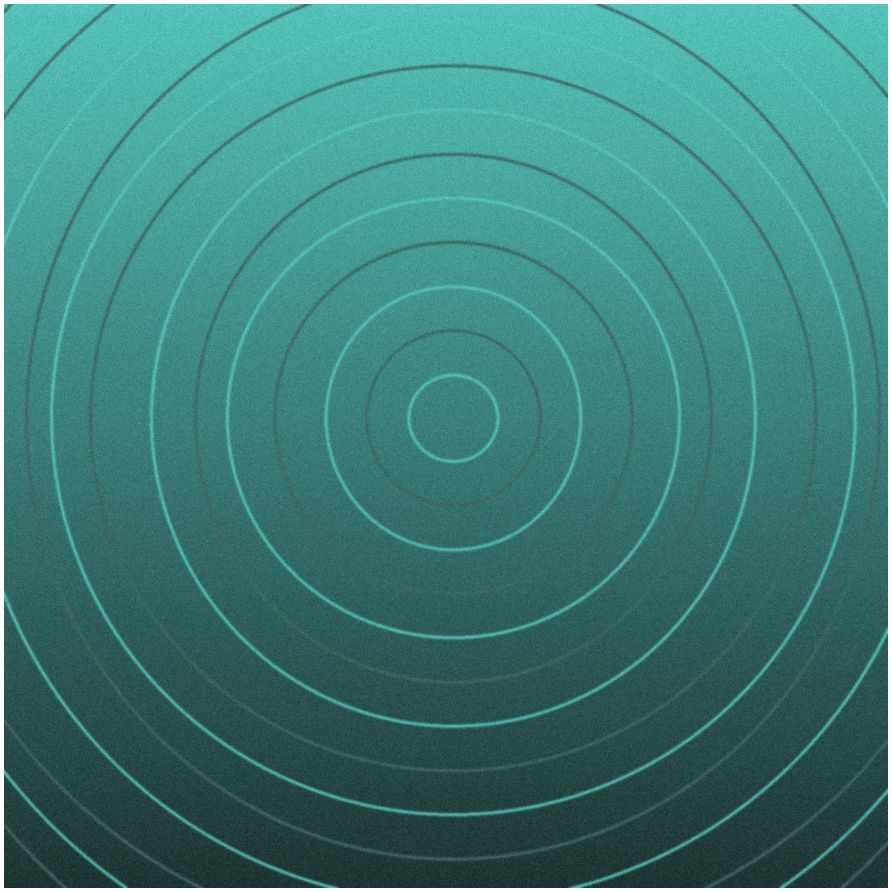
Q: Is Sunrise City good for party? A: Yes; its happy mood and very high energy (0.82) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Sunrise City good for sleep? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.82) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Sunrise City have vocals? A: Yes: lead female vocal with a big multi-tracked sing-along chorus.

Q: Is Sunrise City acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.18).

End of song: Sunrise City



Cover art for Midnight Coding: generated from its mood (chill), energy (0.42) and acousticness (0.71).

Song: Midnight Coding

Artist: LoRoom

Genre: lofi | Mood: chill

Energy: 0.42 (medium) | Tempo: 78 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.56 (medium) | Danceability: 0.62 (high) | Acousticness: 0.71 (high)

Description: A mellow lofi loop with dusty drums, muted electric-piano chords and soft rain samples. Steady and unobtrusive, it is made to sit quietly behind late-night work.

Sound: dusty drum loop, muted electric piano chords, warm sub bass, soft rain samples, vinyl crackle

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: a single four-bar loop that repeats with small variations: a filter sweep halfway through and a short break where only the rain and piano remain

Lyric themes: No lyrics. The track title and the rain samples suggest a quiet room late at night with a screen glowing.

Listen when: late-night studying or coding, reading, journaling, working on something that needs steady focus

Skip when: you want energy or something to sing along to; it is deliberately uneventful

Good for: studying, sleep, chilling

Similar songs: Focus Flow (lofi), Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Library Rain (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Midnight Coding, Focus Flow is about the same energy, focused instead of chill. Compared with Midnight Coding, Coffee Shop Stories is about the same energy, more acoustic, relaxed instead of chill, jazz instead of lofi.

Listening tip: Works well on repeat for long sessions because nothing in it demands attention.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Midnight Coding good for studying? A: Yes; its chill mood and medium energy (0.42) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Midnight Coding good for workout? A: Not really; its chill mood and medium energy (0.42) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

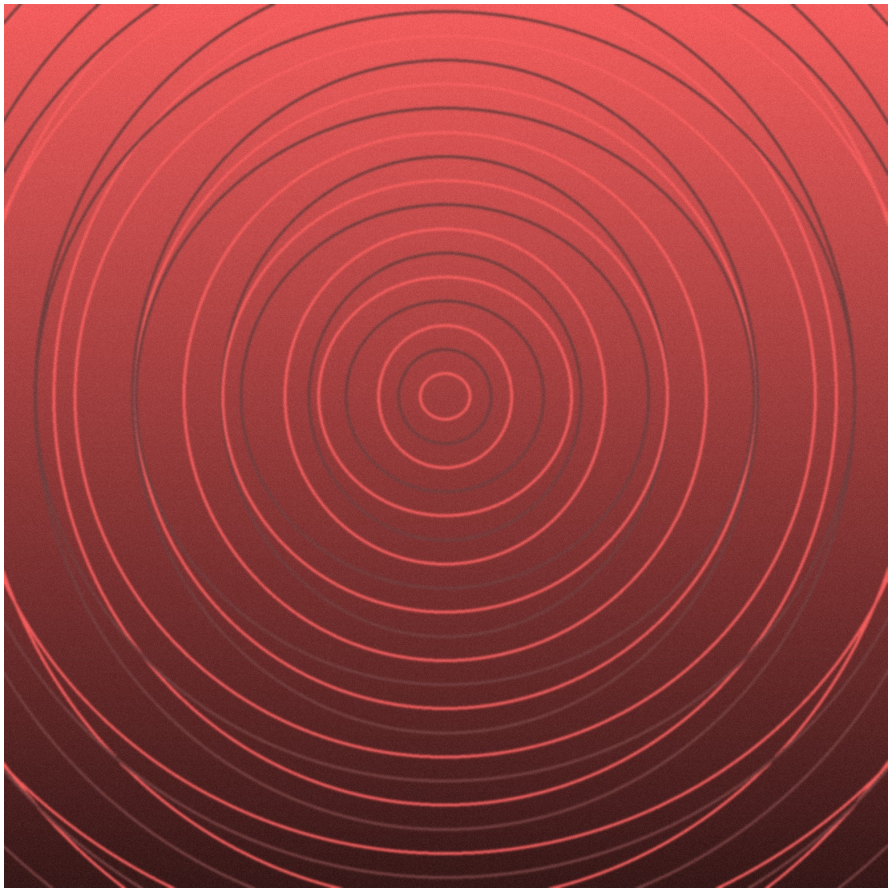
Q: Is Midnight Coding good for party? A: Not really; its chill mood and medium energy (0.42) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Midnight Coding good for sleep? A: Yes; its chill mood and medium energy (0.42) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Midnight Coding have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Midnight Coding acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.71).

End of song: Midnight Coding



Cover art for Storm Runner: generated from its mood (intense), energy (0.91) and acousticness (0.10).

Song: Storm Runner

Artist: Voltline

Genre: rock | Mood: intense

Energy: 0.91 (very high) | Tempo: 152 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.48 (medium) | Danceability: 0.66 (high) | Acousticness: 0.10 (very low)

Description: Fast, distorted guitar rock with pounding live drums and a shouted chorus. The energy is relentless from the first bar; it is built for adrenaline.

Sound: distorted electric guitars, driving bass guitar, pounding live drums with double-time hi-hats, gang vocals in the chorus

Vocals: raw, shouted male lead vocal with gang vocals

Structure: count-in straight into the main riff, two fast verses, explosive choruses, a guitar solo, and an abrupt ending on the last hit

Lyric themes: Running headfirst into a storm instead of away from it: pushing past fear, exhaustion and doubt.

Listen when: workouts, running, lifting, the last push of a hard task

Skip when: you want calm background music; it never lets up

Good for: workout, road trip

Similar songs: Iron Tempest (metal), Gym Hero (pop), Starlight Sprint (k-pop)

Comparisons: Compared with Storm Runner, Iron Tempest is more energetic (0.97 vs 0.91), angry instead of intense, metal instead of rock. Compared with Storm Runner, Gym Hero is about the same energy, pop instead of rock.

Listening tip: The tempo (152 BPM) lines up well with a fast running cadence.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Storm Runner good for studying? A: Not really; its intense mood and very high energy (0.91) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Storm Runner good for workout? A: Yes; its intense mood and very high energy (0.91) fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

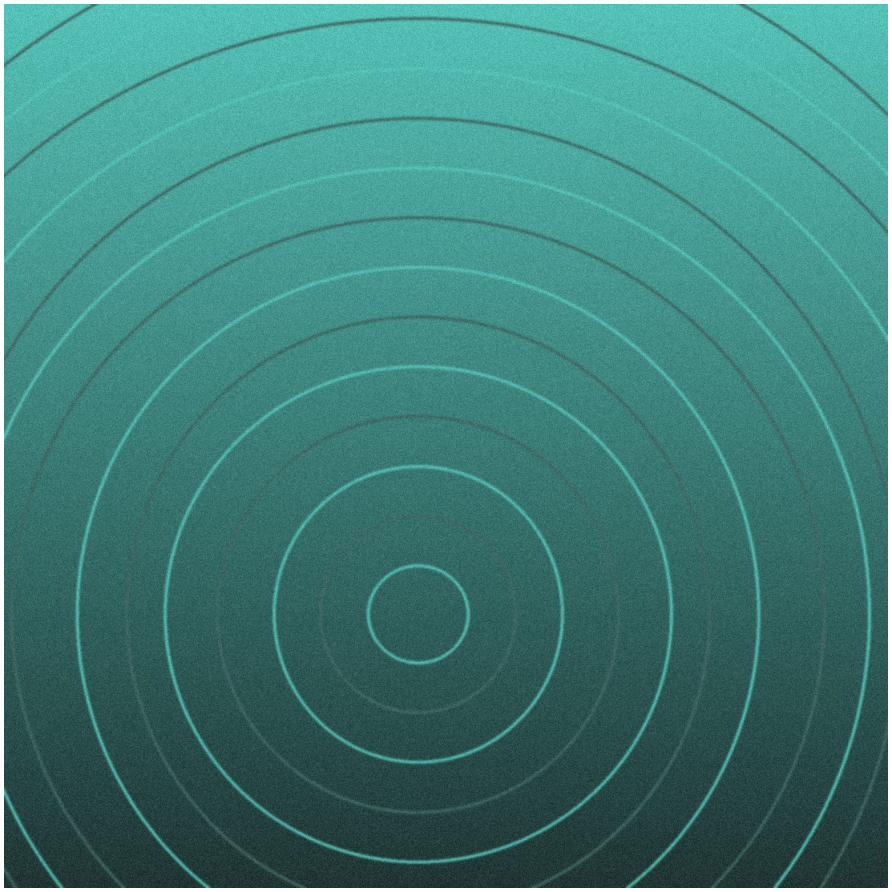
Q: Is Storm Runner good for party? A: Not really; its intense mood and very high energy (0.91) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Storm Runner good for sleep? A: Not really; its intense mood and very high energy (0.91) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Storm Runner have vocals? A: Yes: raw, shouted male lead vocal with gang vocals.

Q: Is Storm Runner acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.10).

End of song: Storm Runner



Cover art for Library Rain: generated from its mood (chill), energy (0.35) and acousticness (0.86).

Song: Library Rain

Artist: Paper Lanterns

Genre: lofi | Mood: chill

Energy: 0.35 (low) | Tempo: 72 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.60 (high) | Danceability: 0.58 (medium) | Acousticness: 0.86 (very high)

Description: Quiet lofi with plucked acoustic guitar, a brushed snare and the sound of rain on a window. Very calm, warm and cozy.

Sound: plucked acoustic guitar, brushed snare, soft upright bass, rain on a window, vinyl crackle

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: gentle loop-based form; the guitar melody changes slightly every eight bars and the rain gets louder near the end

Lyric themes: No lyrics. The mood is a rainy afternoon in a quiet library.

Listen when: studying, reading, rainy days, falling asleep, low-pressure creative work

Skip when: you need motivation or a beat to move to

Good for: studying, sleep, chilling

Similar songs: Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Focus Flow (lofi), Spacewalk Thoughts (ambient)

Comparisons: Compared with Library Rain, Coffee Shop Stories is about the same energy, relaxed instead of chill, jazz instead of lofi. Compared with Library Rain, Focus Flow is more energetic (0.40 vs 0.35), focused instead of chill.

Listening tip: One of the most acoustic tracks in the catalog, so it suits listeners who dislike electronic sounds.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Library Rain good for studying? A: Yes; its chill mood and low energy (0.35) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Library Rain good for workout? A: Not really; its chill mood and low energy (0.35) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

Q: Is Library Rain good for party? A: Not really; its chill mood and low energy (0.35) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Library Rain good for sleep? A: Yes; its chill mood and low energy (0.35) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Library Rain have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Library Rain acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.86).

End of song: Library Rain

Cover art for Gym Hero: generated from its mood (intense), energy (0.93) and acousticness (0.05).

Song: Gym Hero

Artist: Max Pulse

Genre: pop | Mood: intense

Energy: 0.93 (very high) | Tempo: 132 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.77 (high) | Danceability: 0.88 (very high) | Acousticness: 0.05 (very low)

Description: A pumped-up pop track with stadium drums, chanted vocals and a hard-hitting drop. It is aggressive for pop: more 'push through the last rep' than 'feel good'.

Sound: stadium drums, heavy synth bass, distorted synth stabs, a hard-hitting drop, chanted crowd vocals

Vocals: chanted, shouted pop vocals with a call-and-response hook

Structure: a building intro, verse, a chant pre-chorus, a big drop instead of a sung chorus, then a second drop with extra percussion

Lyric themes: Pure motivation: one more rep, no excuses, be your own hero.

Listen when: workouts, sports warm-ups, pre-game hype

Skip when: you asked for happy or feel-good pop; it is intense rather than cheerful

Good for: workout, party, road trip

Similar songs: Laser Bloom (edm), Starlight Sprint (k-pop), Storm Runner (rock)

Comparisons: Compared with Gym Hero, Laser Bloom is about the same energy, euphoric instead of intense, edm instead of pop. Compared with Gym Hero, Starlight Sprint is less energetic (0.88 vs 0.93), happy instead of intense, k-pop instead of pop.

Listening tip: It is labeled pop but behaves like a workout track, which is why it sometimes ranks high for pop fans who wanted something sunnier.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Gym Hero good for studying? A: Not really; its intense mood and very high energy (0.93) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Gym Hero good for workout? A: Yes; its intense mood and very high energy (0.93) fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

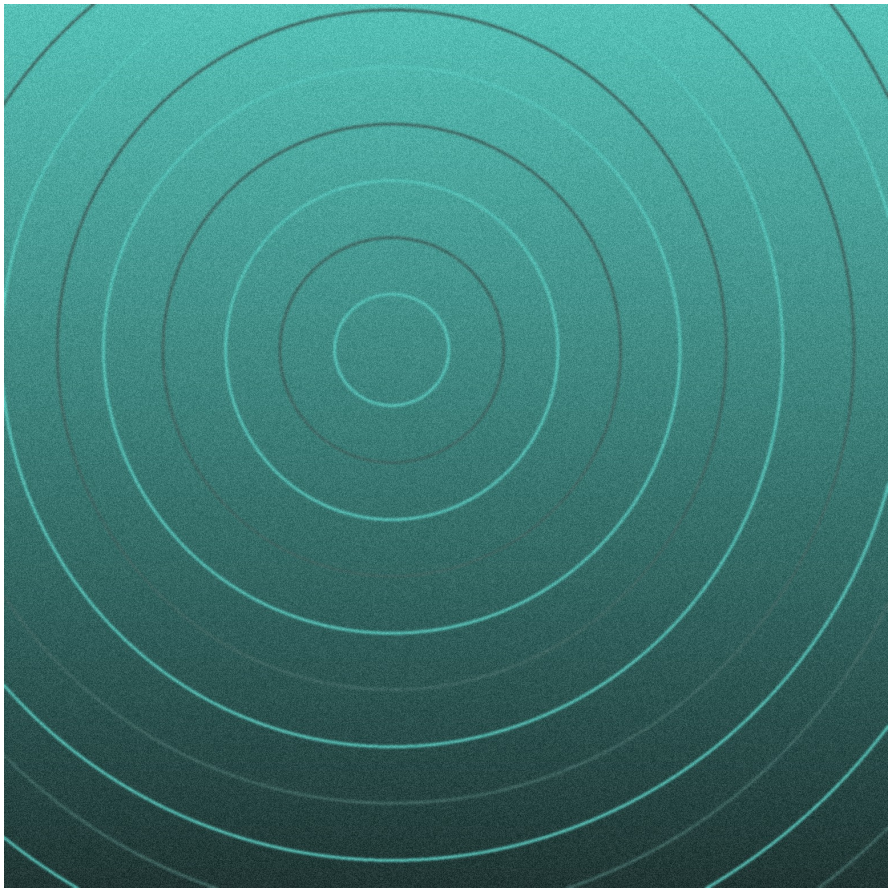
Q: Is Gym Hero good for party? A: Yes; its intense mood and very high energy (0.93) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Gym Hero good for sleep? A: Not really; its intense mood and very high energy (0.93) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Gym Hero have vocals? A: Yes: chanted, shouted pop vocals with a call-and-response hook.

Q: Is Gym Hero acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.05).

End of song: Gym Hero



Cover art for Spacewalk Thoughts: generated from its mood (chill), energy (0.28) and acousticness (0.92).

Song: Spacewalk Thoughts

Artist: Orbit Bloom

Genre: ambient | Mood: chill

Energy: 0.28 (low) | Tempo: 60 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.65 (high) | Danceability: 0.41 (medium) | Acousticness: 0.92 (very high)

Description: A slow, floating ambient piece of soft synth pads and distant piano with no real beat. Spacious, weightless and calm.

Sound: slow evolving synth pads, distant reverb-heavy piano, soft drones, faint radio static

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: no beat and no fixed sections; it slowly swells and fades over the whole track

Lyric themes: No lyrics. It suggests floating weightlessly while looking back at Earth.

Listen when: sleep, meditation, deep focus, decompressing after a busy day

Skip when: you want rhythm, a melody to hum, or anything upbeat

Good for: studying, sleep, chilling

Similar songs: Library Rain (lofi), Focus Flow (lofi), Midnight Coding (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Spacewalk Thoughts, Library Rain is more energetic (0.35 vs 0.28), lofi instead of ambient. Compared with Spacewalk Thoughts, Focus Flow is more energetic (0.40 vs 0.28), focused instead of chill, lofi instead of ambient.

Listening tip: Best at low volume; it is designed to disappear into the background.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Spacewalk Thoughts good for studying? A: Yes; its chill mood and low energy (0.28) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Spacewalk Thoughts good for workout? A: Not really; its chill mood and low energy (0.28) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

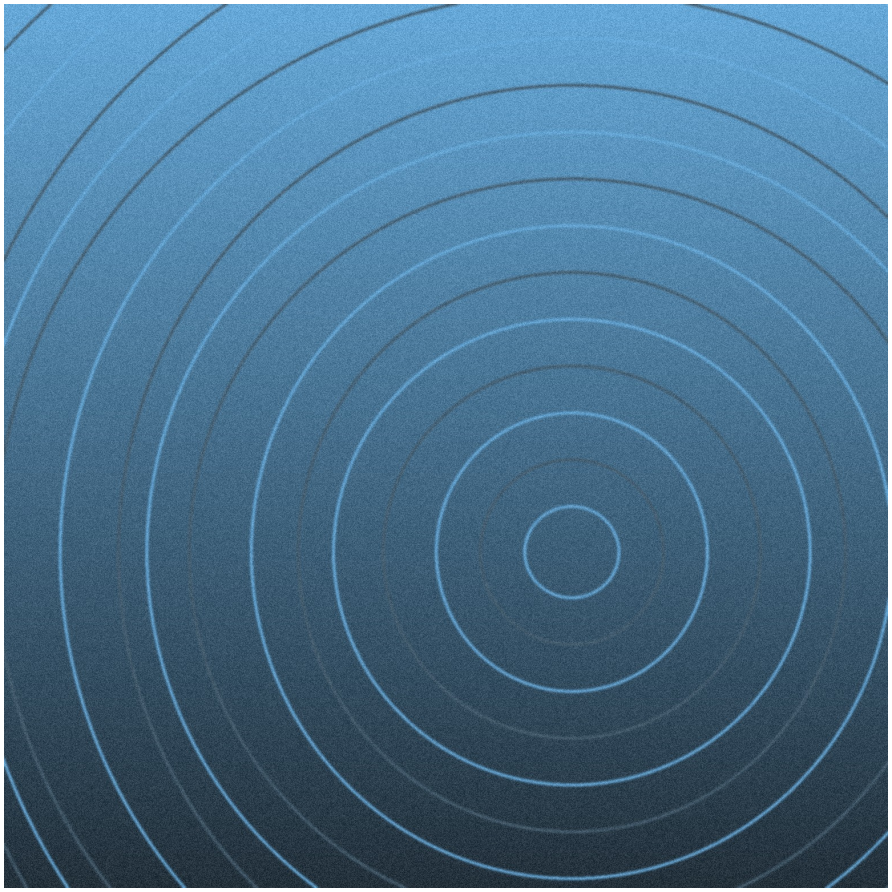
Q: Is Spacewalk Thoughts good for party? A: Not really; its chill mood and low energy (0.28) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Spacewalk Thoughts good for sleep? A: Yes; its chill mood and low energy (0.28) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Spacewalk Thoughts have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Spacewalk Thoughts acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.92).

End of song: Spacewalk Thoughts



Cover art for Coffee Shop Stories: generated from its mood (relaxed), energy (0.37) and acousticness (0.89).

Song: Coffee Shop Stories

Artist: Slow Stereo

Genre: jazz | Mood: relaxed

Energy: 0.37 (low) | Tempo: 90 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.71 (high) | Danceability: 0.54 (medium) | Acousticness: 0.89 (very high)

Description: An easygoing jazz trio of upright bass, brushed drums and gentle piano. It sounds like a quiet afternoon in a cafe and stays pleasantly in the background.

Sound: upright bass, brushed drums, gentle jazz piano

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: a classic jazz form: the piano states the melody, takes a relaxed solo, the bass takes a short solo, then the melody returns

Lyric themes: No lyrics. It sounds like an afternoon in a small cafe with the rain outside.

Listen when: cooking, dinner, reading, coffee-shop style background music, relaxed studying

Skip when: you want something with a strong beat or vocals

Good for: studying, sleep, dinner, chilling

Similar songs: Library Rain (lofi), Focus Flow (lofi), Midnight Coding (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Coffee Shop Stories, Library Rain is about the same energy, chill instead of relaxed, lofi instead of jazz. Compared with Coffee Shop Stories, Focus Flow is about the same energy, focused instead of relaxed, lofi instead of jazz.

Listening tip: Warm and acoustic, so it pairs well with lofi playlists even though it is real jazz.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Coffee Shop Stories good for studying? A: Yes; its relaxed mood and low energy (0.37) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Coffee Shop Stories good for workout? A: Not really; its relaxed mood and low energy (0.37) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

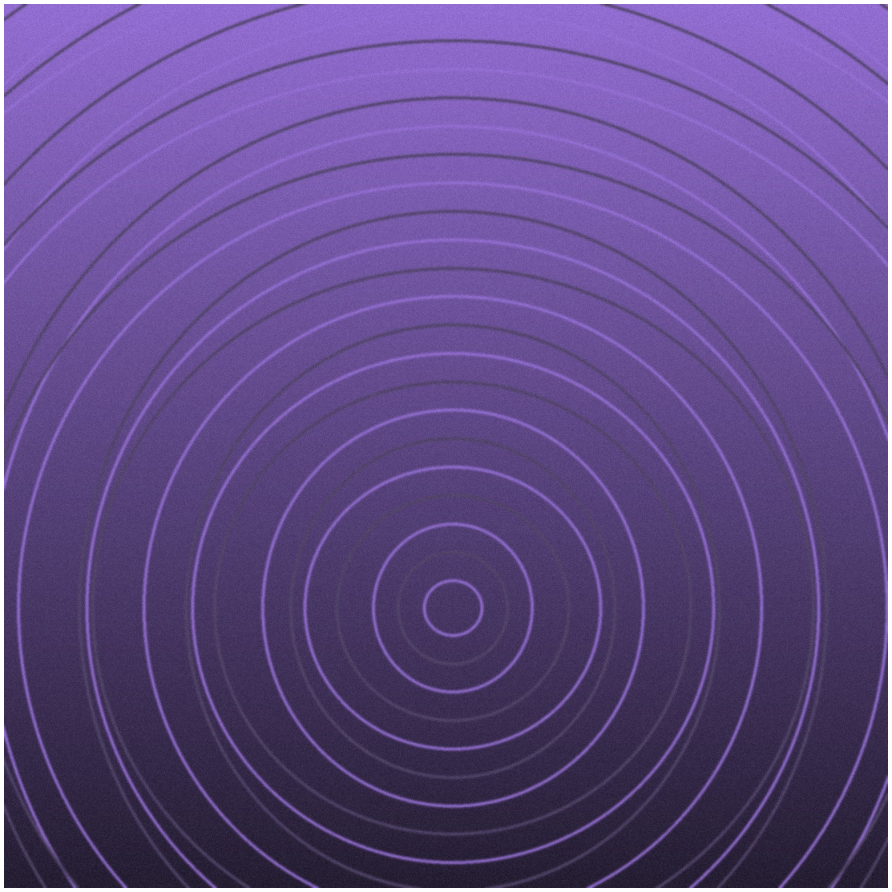
Q: Is Coffee Shop Stories good for party? A: Not really; its relaxed mood and low energy (0.37) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Coffee Shop Stories good for sleep? A: Yes; its relaxed mood and low energy (0.37) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Coffee Shop Stories have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Coffee Shop Stories acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.89).

End of song: Coffee Shop Stories



Cover art for Night Drive Loop: generated from its mood (moody), energy (0.75) and acousticness (0.22).

Song: Night Drive Loop

Artist: Neon Echo

Genre: synthwave | Mood: moody

Energy: 0.75 (high) | Tempo: 110 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.49 (medium) | Danceability: 0.73 (high) | Acousticness: 0.22 (low)

Description: Retro synthwave with pulsing arpeggios, gated drums and a dark, cinematic melody. It evokes empty highways and city lights after midnight.

Sound: pulsing synth arpeggios, gated reverb drums, analog synth bass, a dark synth lead melody

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: a slow fade-in, the main arpeggio loop, a melodic lead section, a breakdown, and a long fade-out

Lyric themes: No lyrics. It evokes driving through empty city streets after midnight under neon lights.

Listen when: night drives, late-night walks, gaming, moody focus sessions

Skip when: you want something bright or cheerful

Good for: road trip, night drive

Similar songs: Rooftop Lights (indie pop), Laser Bloom (edm), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Comparisons: Compared with Night Drive Loop, Rooftop Lights is about the same energy, happy instead of moody, indie pop instead of synthwave. Compared with Night Drive Loop, Laser Bloom is more energetic (0.95 vs 0.75), less acoustic, euphoric instead of moody, edm instead of synthwave.

Listening tip: Shares its artist (Neon Echo) with Sunrise City but has the opposite mood: dark and cinematic instead of sunny.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Night Drive Loop good for studying? A: Not really; its moody mood and high energy (0.75) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Night Drive Loop good for workout? A: Not really; its moody mood and high energy (0.75) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

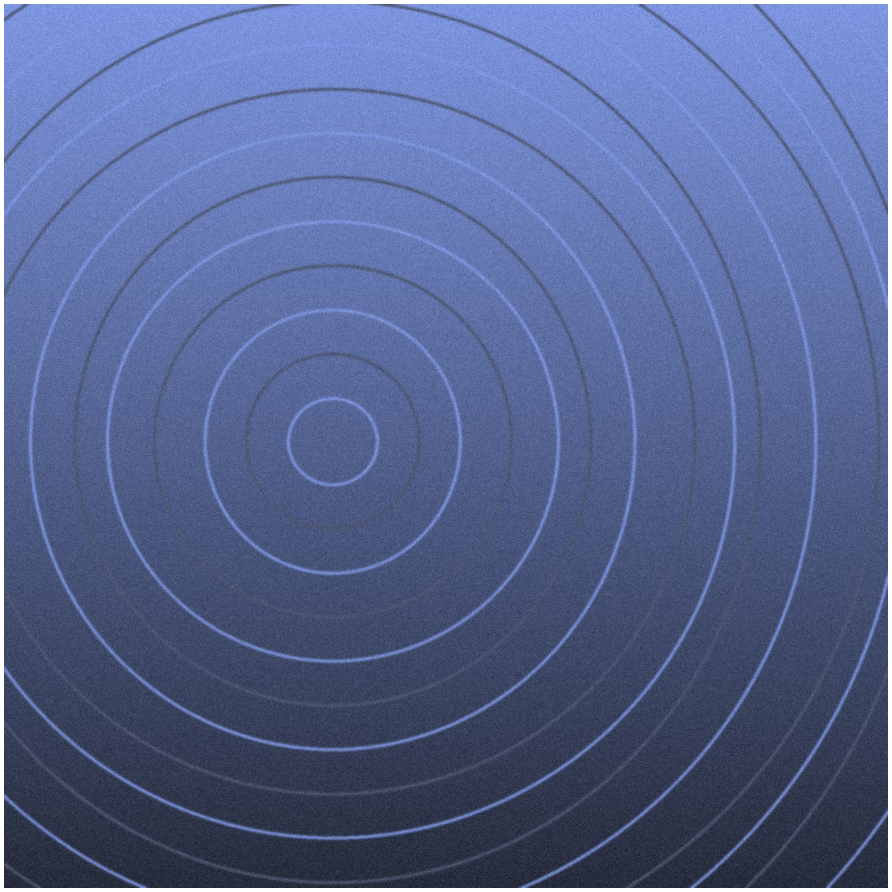
Q: Is Night Drive Loop good for party? A: Not really; its moody mood and high energy (0.75) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Night Drive Loop good for sleep? A: Not really; its moody mood and high energy (0.75) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Night Drive Loop have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Night Drive Loop acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.22).

End of song: Night Drive Loop



Cover art for Focus Flow: generated from its mood (focused), energy (0.40) and acousticness (0.78).

Song: Focus Flow

Artist: LoRoom

Genre: lofi | Mood: focused

Energy: 0.40 (medium) | Tempo: 80 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.59 (medium) | Danceability: 0.60 (high) | Acousticness: 0.78 (high)

Description: Minimal lofi with a steady head-nod beat, soft keys and no vocals. It is repetitive on purpose so it fades into the background while you concentrate.

Sound: steady lofi drum loop, soft electric piano, warm bass, vinyl crackle

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: one loop with very small changes so it never pulls attention away from work

Lyric themes: No lyrics. Built specifically as focus music.

Listen when: studying, coding, writing, any task that needs concentration

Skip when: you are looking for emotion or a big moment; it is intentionally flat

Good for: studying, sleep, chilling

Similar songs: Midnight Coding (lofi), Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Library Rain (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Focus Flow, Midnight Coding is about the same energy, chill instead of focused. Compared with Focus Flow, Coffee Shop Stories is about the same energy, relaxed instead of focused, jazz instead of lofi.

Listening tip: Its mood is labeled focused rather than chill, so exact-mood searches for chill can miss it even though it fits.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Focus Flow good for studying? A: Yes; its focused mood and medium energy (0.40) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Focus Flow good for workout? A: Not really; its focused mood and medium energy (0.40) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

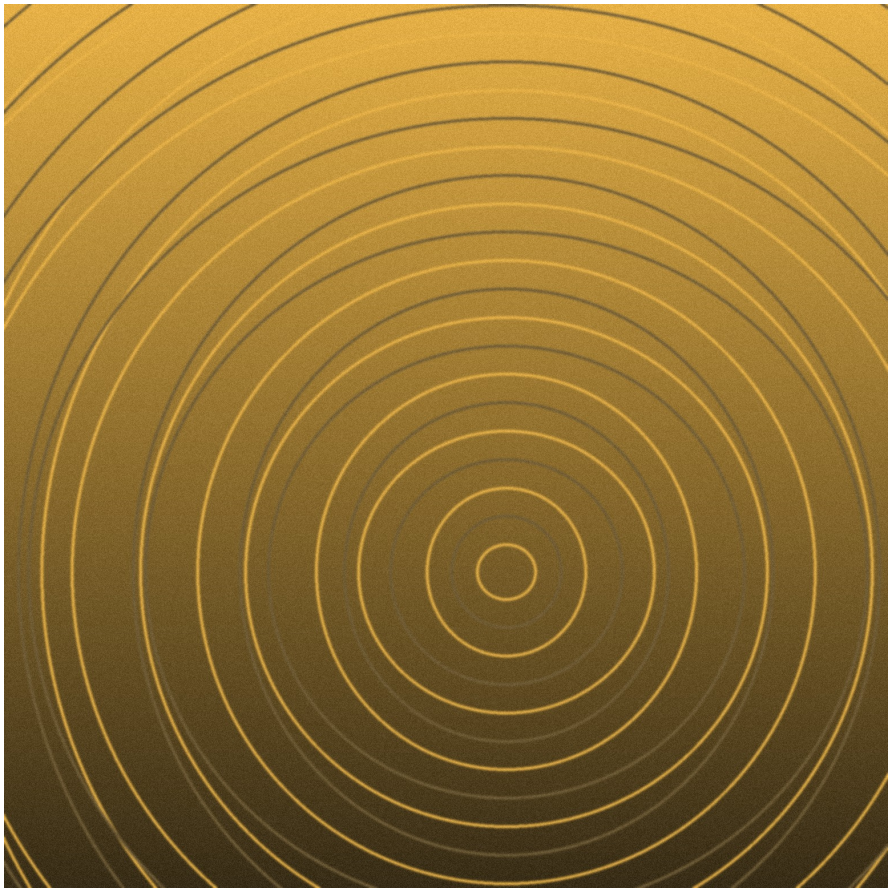
Q: Is Focus Flow good for party? A: Not really; its focused mood and medium energy (0.40) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Focus Flow good for sleep? A: Yes; its focused mood and medium energy (0.40) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Focus Flow have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Focus Flow acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.78).

End of song: Focus Flow



Cover art for Rooftop Lights: generated from its mood (happy), energy (0.76) and acousticness (0.35).

Song: Rooftop Lights

Artist: Indigo Parade

Genre: indie pop | Mood: happy

Energy: 0.76 (high) | Tempo: 124 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.81 (very high) | Danceability: 0.82 (very high) | Acousticness: 0.35 (low)

Description: Jangly indie pop with chiming guitars, handclaps and a warm, slightly lo-fi vocal. Summer-evening joy with a handmade feel.

Sound: jangly electric guitars, chiming acoustic guitar, handclaps, tambourine, warm bass, live drums

Vocals: warm, slightly lo-fi male lead vocal with group backing vocals

Structure: guitar riff intro, two verses, a big singalong chorus, a handclap breakdown, and a final chorus

Lyric themes: A summer evening on a rooftop with friends, watching the city lights come on.

Listen when: road trips, summer evenings, hanging out with friends, a happy mood that is not too polished

Skip when: you want a very produced or electronic sound

Good for: party, road trip

Similar songs: Sunrise City (pop), Night Drive Loop (synthwave), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Comparisons: Compared with Rooftop Lights, Sunrise City is more energetic (0.82 vs 0.76), less acoustic, pop instead of indie pop. Compared with Rooftop Lights, Night Drive Loop is about the same energy, moody instead of happy, synthwave instead of indie pop.

Listening tip: A good pick for pop fans who want something happier and more handmade than mainstream pop.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Rooftop Lights good for studying? A: Not really; its happy mood and high energy (0.76) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Rooftop Lights good for workout? A: Not really; its happy mood and high energy (0.76) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

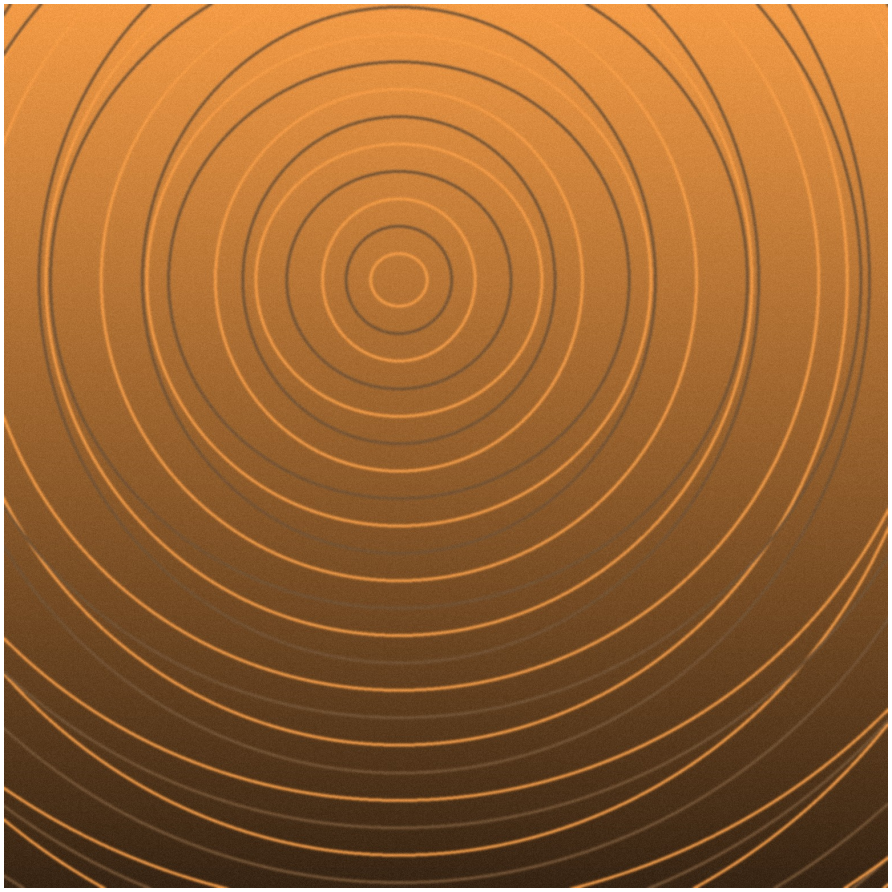
Q: Is Rooftop Lights good for party? A: Yes; its happy mood and high energy (0.76) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Rooftop Lights good for sleep? A: Not really; its happy mood and high energy (0.76) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Rooftop Lights have vocals? A: Yes: warm, slightly lo-fi male lead vocal with group backing vocals.

Q: Is Rooftop Lights acoustic? A: Partly (acousticness 0.35).

End of song: Rooftop Lights



Cover art for Concrete Crown: generated from its mood (confident), energy (0.78) and acousticness (0.12).

Song: Concrete Crown

Artist: Kilo Verse

Genre: hip-hop | Mood: confident

Energy: 0.78 (high) | Tempo: 94 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.62 (high) | Danceability: 0.86 (very high) | Acousticness: 0.12 (very low)

Description: Swaggering hip-hop over a heavy boom-bap beat and deep 808 bass, with confident verses and a chantable hook.

Sound: boom-bap drums, deep 808 bass, chopped soul sample, record scratches

Vocals: confident male rap verses with a chanted hook

Structure: short intro, three rap verses separated by a repeated hook, and a scratch outro

Lyric themes: Building yourself up from nothing and claiming your place: self-belief and hustle.

Listen when: walking to class, getting hyped before a presentation, workouts, confidence boosts

Skip when: you want calm or instrumental music

Good for: workout, party, road trip

Similar songs: Starlight Sprint (k-pop), Sunrise City (pop), Rooftop Lights (indie pop)

Comparisons: Compared with Concrete Crown, Starlight Sprint is more energetic (0.88 vs 0.78), happy instead of confident, k-pop instead of hip-hop. Compared with Concrete Crown, Sunrise City is about the same energy, happy instead of confident, pop instead of hip-hop.

Listening tip: The only hip-hop song in the catalog, so hip-hop fans will often see lofi tracks as related picks.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Concrete Crown good for studying? A: Not really; its confident mood and high energy (0.78) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Concrete Crown good for workout? A: Yes; its confident mood and high energy (0.78) fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

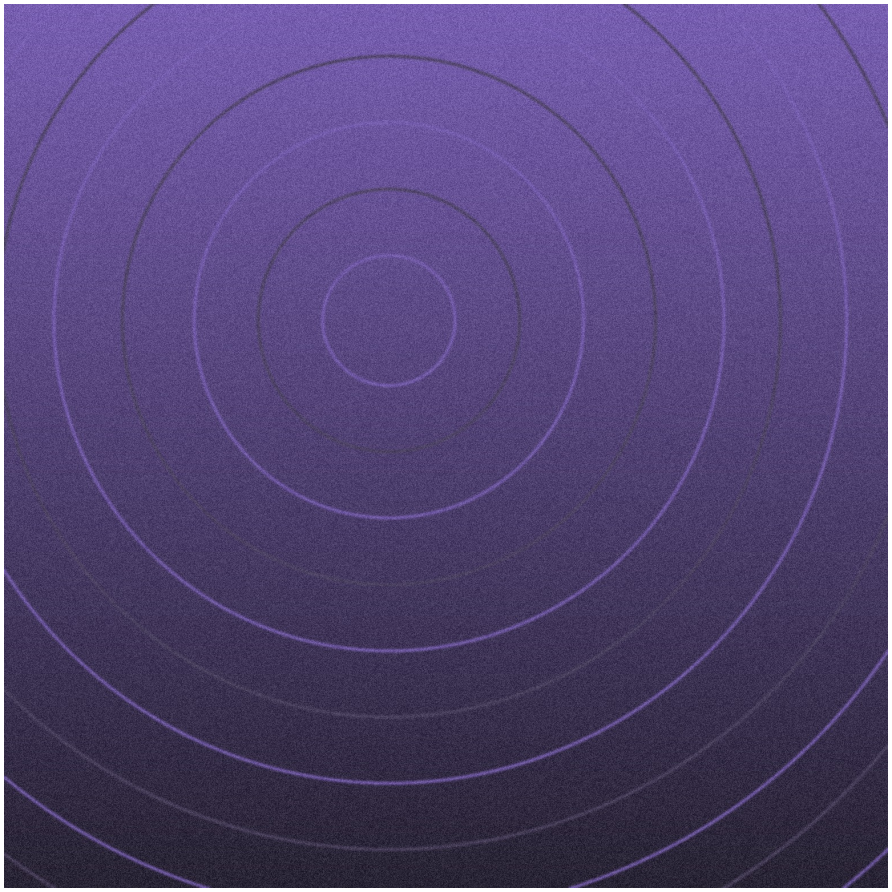
Q: Is Concrete Crown good for party? A: Yes; its confident mood and high energy (0.78) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Concrete Crown good for sleep? A: Not really; its confident mood and high energy (0.78) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Concrete Crown have vocals? A: Yes: confident male rap verses with a chanted hook.

Q: Is Concrete Crown acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.12).

End of song: Concrete Crown



Cover art for Moonlit Sonata Redux: generated from its mood (melancholy), energy (0.22) and acousticness (0.97).

Song: Moonlit Sonata Redux

Artist: Clara Vey

Genre: classical | Mood: melancholy

Energy: 0.22 (low) | Tempo: 66 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.30 (low) | Danceability: 0.20 (low) | Acousticness: 0.97 (very high)

Description: A slow solo-piano piece with long sustained notes and a wistful, minor-key melody. Very quiet, acoustic and introspective.

Sound: solo grand piano with long sustained notes and soft pedal

Vocals: none (instrumental)

Structure: a slow opening theme, a gentle middle section in a brighter key, and a return to the opening theme that fades out

Lyric themes: No lyrics. Wistful and introspective, like thinking about the past late at night.

Listen when: sleep, reading, studying, quiet evenings, reflective or sad moods

Skip when: you want energy or a beat

Good for: studying, sleep, heartbreak

Similar songs: Spacewalk Thoughts (ambient), Paper Boats (folk), Library Rain (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Moonlit Sonata Redux, Spacewalk Thoughts is more energetic (0.28 vs 0.22), chill instead of melancholy, ambient instead of classical. Compared with Moonlit Sonata Redux, Paper Boats is more energetic (0.30 vs 0.22), sad instead of melancholy, folk instead of classical.

Listening tip: The most acoustic track in the catalog (acousticness 0.97).

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Moonlit Sonata Redux good for studying? A: Yes; its melancholy mood and low energy (0.22) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Moonlit Sonata Redux good for workout? A: Not really; its melancholy mood and low energy (0.22) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

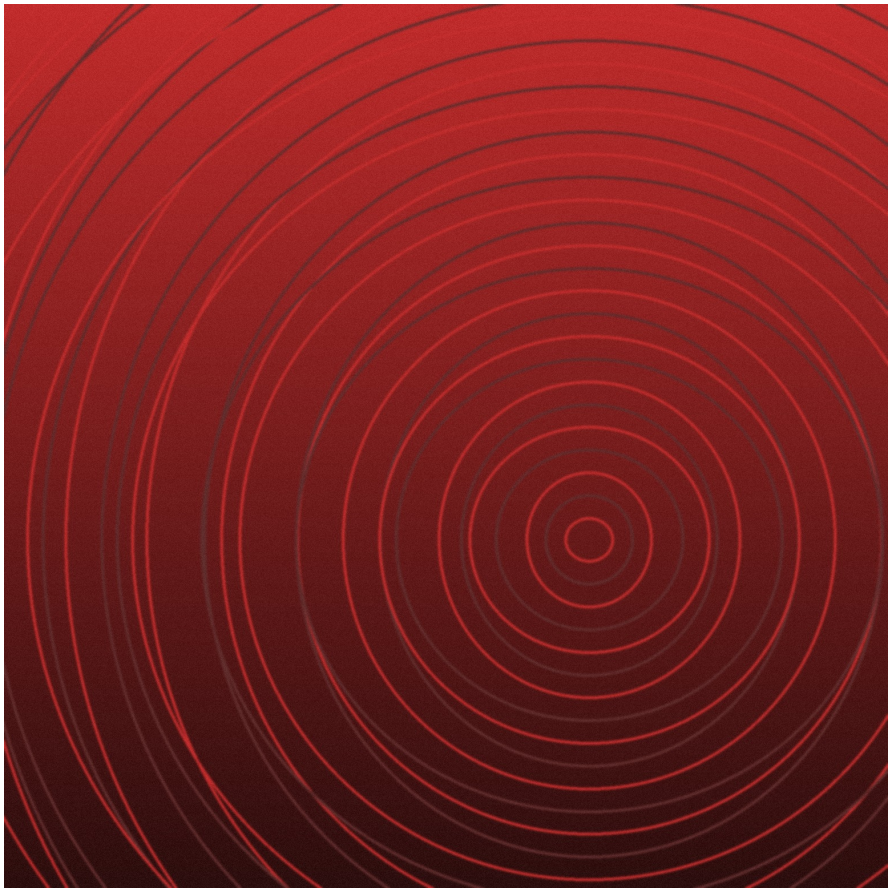
Q: Is Moonlit Sonata Redux good for party? A: Not really; its melancholy mood and low energy (0.22) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Moonlit Sonata Redux good for sleep? A: Yes; its melancholy mood and low energy (0.22) fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Moonlit Sonata Redux have vocals? A: No, it is instrumental.

Q: Is Moonlit Sonata Redux acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.97).

End of song: Moonlit Sonata Redux



Cover art for Iron Tempest: generated from its mood (angry), energy (0.97) and acousticness (0.03).

Song: Iron Tempest

Artist: Graveforge

Genre: metal | Mood: angry

Energy: 0.97 (very high) | Tempo: 168 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.25 (low) | Danceability: 0.45 (medium) | Acousticness: 0.03 (very low)

Description: Heavy metal with blast-beat drums, down-tuned riffs and growled vocals. It is the most aggressive and highest-energy track in the catalog.

Sound: down-tuned distorted guitars, blast-beat drums, heavy bass guitar, guitar solo

Vocals: growled and screamed male vocals

Structure: a feedback intro, crushing riffs, two verses, a half-time breakdown, a shredding guitar solo, and a final assault

Lyric themes: Rage and defiance: a storm that tears everything down.

Listen when: intense workouts, venting anger, heavy lifting

Skip when: you want anything calm, happy or acoustic

Good for: workout

Similar songs: Storm Runner (rock), Gym Hero (pop), Laser Bloom (edm)

Comparisons: Compared with Iron Tempest, Storm Runner is less energetic (0.91 vs 0.97), intense instead of angry, rock instead of metal. Compared with Iron Tempest, Gym Hero is about the same energy, intense instead of angry, pop instead of metal.

Listening tip: The highest-energy (0.97) and fastest (168 BPM) song in the catalog.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Iron Tempest good for studying? A: Not really; its angry mood and very high energy (0.97) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Iron Tempest good for workout? A: Yes; its angry mood and very high energy (0.97) fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

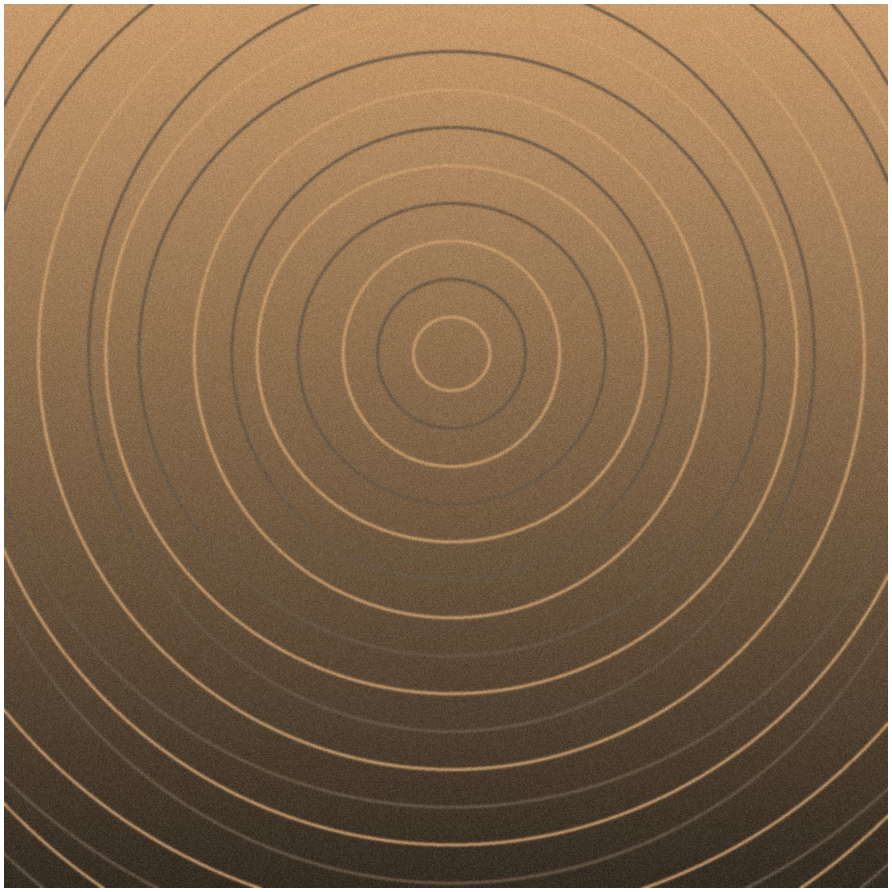
Q: Is Iron Tempest good for party? A: Not really; its angry mood and very high energy (0.97) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Iron Tempest good for sleep? A: Not really; its angry mood and very high energy (0.97) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Iron Tempest have vocals? A: Yes: growled and screamed male vocals.

Q: Is Iron Tempest acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.03).

End of song: Iron Tempest



Cover art for Dusty Porch Swing: generated from its mood (nostalgic), energy (0.52) and acousticness (0.68).

Song: Dusty Porch Swing

Artist: Willa Grange

Genre: country | Mood: nostalgic

Energy: 0.52 (medium) | Tempo: 102 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.74 (high) | Danceability: 0.63 (high) | Acousticness: 0.68 (high)

Description: Acoustic country with fiddle, slide guitar and a story about summers at a grandparent's farmhouse. Warm, unhurried and nostalgic.

Sound: acoustic guitar, fiddle, slide guitar, upright bass, light brushed drums, harmonica

Vocals: warm female country vocal with a harmony on the chorus

Structure: fiddle intro, storytelling verses, a gentle chorus, a fiddle solo, and a quiet final verse

Lyric themes: Remembering childhood summers on a grandparent's farmhouse porch: lemonade, crickets and simpler times.

Listen when: cooking, dinner, slow Sunday afternoons, nostalgic moods, road trips through the countryside

Skip when: you want high energy or electronic production

Good for: road trip, night drive, heartbreak

Similar songs: Crossroads Blue (blues), Paper Boats (folk), Midnight Coding (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Dusty Porch Swing, Crossroads Blue is less energetic (0.45 vs 0.52), sad instead of nostalgic, blues instead of country. Compared with Dusty Porch Swing, Paper Boats is less energetic (0.30 vs 0.52), more acoustic, sad instead of nostalgic, folk instead of country.

Listening tip: A good fallback for folk or polka fans, since it shares acoustic instruments with those styles.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Dusty Porch Swing good for studying? A: Not really; its nostalgic mood and medium energy (0.52) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Dusty Porch Swing good for workout? A: Not really; its nostalgic mood and medium energy (0.52) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

Q: Is Dusty Porch Swing good for party? A: Not really; its nostalgic mood and medium energy (0.52) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Dusty Porch Swing good for sleep? A: Not really; its nostalgic mood and medium energy (0.52) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Dusty Porch Swing have vocals? A: Yes: warm female country vocal with a harmony on the chorus.

Q: Is Dusty Porch Swing acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.68).

End of song: Dusty Porch Swing

Cover art for Velvet Hours: generated from its mood (romantic), energy (0.48) and acousticness (0.40).

Song: Velvet Hours

Artist: Sade Monroe

Genre: r&b | Mood: romantic

Energy: 0.48 (medium) | Tempo: 84 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.66 (high) | Danceability: 0.72 (high) | Acousticness: 0.40 (medium)

Description: Smooth, slow-burning R&B with silky vocals, soft electric piano and a laid-back groove. An intimate, late-evening mood.

Sound: soft electric piano, smooth bass, gentle programmed drums, string pads

Vocals: silky, breathy female R&B vocal with layered harmonies

Structure: a slow-groove intro, two verses, a smooth chorus, a vocal-run bridge, and a long fade

Lyric themes: A slow evening with someone you love, where time seems to stretch.

Listen when: date night, dinner, late evenings, romantic moods

Skip when: you want to dance hard or need a strong motivational push

Good for: night drive, heartbreak, dinner

Similar songs: Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Island Postcard (reggae), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Comparisons: Compared with Velvet Hours, Coffee Shop Stories is less energetic (0.37 vs 0.48), more acoustic, relaxed instead of romantic, jazz instead of r&b. Compared with Velvet Hours, Island Postcard is more energetic (0.55 vs 0.48), relaxed instead of romantic, reggae instead of r&b.

Listening tip: The only song in the catalog with a romantic mood.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Velvet Hours good for studying? A: Not really; its romantic mood and medium energy (0.48) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Velvet Hours good for workout? A: Not really; its romantic mood and medium energy (0.48) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

Q: Is Velvet Hours good for party? A: Not really; its romantic mood and medium energy (0.48) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Velvet Hours good for sleep? A: Not really; its romantic mood and medium energy (0.48) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Velvet Hours have vocals? A: Yes: silky, breathy female R&B vocal with layered harmonies.

Q: Is Velvet Hours acoustic? A: Partly (acousticness 0.40).

End of song: Velvet Hours

Cover art for Laser Bloom: generated from its mood (euphoric), energy (0.95) and acousticness (0.04).

Song: Laser Bloom

Artist: Pulse Theory

Genre: edm | Mood: euphoric

Energy: 0.95 (very high) | Tempo: 128 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.88 (very high) | Danceability: 0.93 (very high) | Acousticness: 0.04 (very low)

Description: Festival EDM with a long build, a huge euphoric drop and sparkling synth leads. Pure peak-time dance-floor energy; almost nothing acoustic.

Sound: sparkling synth leads, supersaw chords, four-on-the-floor kick, a long riser build, a huge drop, sidechained bass

Vocals: short chopped vocal samples only; mostly instrumental

Structure: intro, a long build with a riser, a massive drop, a breakdown, a second build and a bigger final drop

Lyric themes: Almost no lyrics; the chopped vocal hints at a night that feels endless.

Listen when: parties, dancing, pregaming, high-energy workouts

Skip when: you want acoustic, calm or lyric-driven music

Good for: workout, party, road trip, night drive

Similar songs: Starlight Sprint (k-pop), Sunrise City (pop), Gym Hero (pop)

Comparisons: Compared with Laser Bloom, Starlight Sprint is less energetic (0.88 vs 0.95), happy instead of euphoric, k-pop instead of edm. Compared with Laser Bloom, Sunrise City is less energetic (0.82 vs 0.95), happy instead of euphoric, pop instead of edm.

Listening tip: The most euphoric track in the catalog and one of the least acoustic (acousticness 0.04).

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Laser Bloom good for studying? A: Not really; its euphoric mood and very high energy (0.95) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Laser Bloom good for workout? A: Yes; its euphoric mood and very high energy (0.95) fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

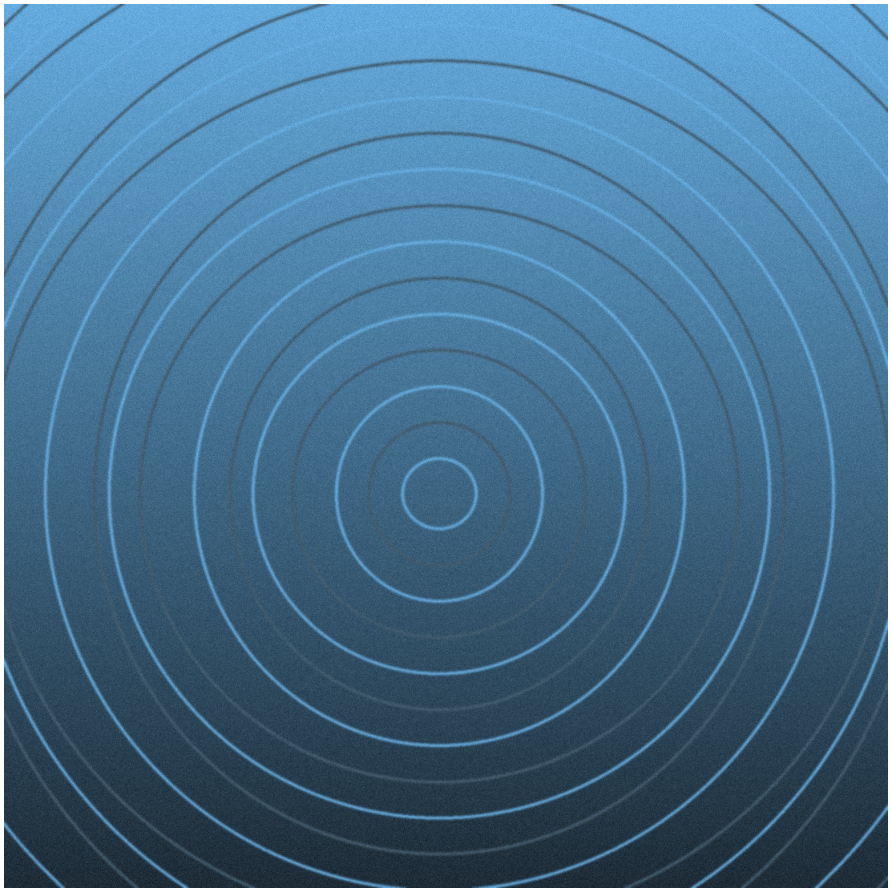
Q: Is Laser Bloom good for party? A: Yes; its euphoric mood and very high energy (0.95) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Laser Bloom good for sleep? A: Not really; its euphoric mood and very high energy (0.95) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Laser Bloom have vocals? A: Yes: short chopped vocal samples only; mostly instrumental.

Q: Is Laser Bloom acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.04).

End of song: Laser Bloom



Cover art for Island Postcard: generated from its mood (relaxed), energy (0.55) and acousticness (0.45).

Song: Island Postcard

Artist: Roots Harbor

Genre: reggae | Mood: relaxed

Energy: 0.55 (medium) | Tempo: 76 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.83 (very high) | Danceability: 0.77 (high) | Acousticness: 0.45 (medium)

Description: Sunny roots reggae with an off-beat guitar skank, warm bass and easygoing vocals about a beach town. Relaxed and bright.

Sound: off-beat guitar skank, warm bass line, organ bubble, hand percussion, melodica

Vocals: easygoing male vocal with call-and-response backing vocals

Structure: a relaxed groove that stays steady through two verses, a sing-along chorus, and a melodica solo

Lyric themes: Postcards from a beach town where nobody is in a hurry.

Listen when: beach days, lazy Sundays, cooking, relaxed hangouts, summer

Skip when: you want intensity or very low energy for sleep

Good for: studying, dinner, chilling

Similar songs: Velvet Hours (r&b), Midnight Coding (lofi), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Comparisons: Compared with Island Postcard, Velvet Hours is less energetic (0.48 vs 0.55), romantic instead of relaxed, r&b instead of reggae. Compared with Island Postcard, Midnight Coding is less energetic (0.42 vs 0.55), more acoustic, chill instead of relaxed, lofi instead of reggae.

Listening tip: The only reggae song in the catalog and the closest match for reggaeton or Latin requests.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Island Postcard good for studying? A: Yes; its relaxed mood and medium energy (0.55) fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Island Postcard good for workout? A: Not really; its relaxed mood and medium energy (0.55) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

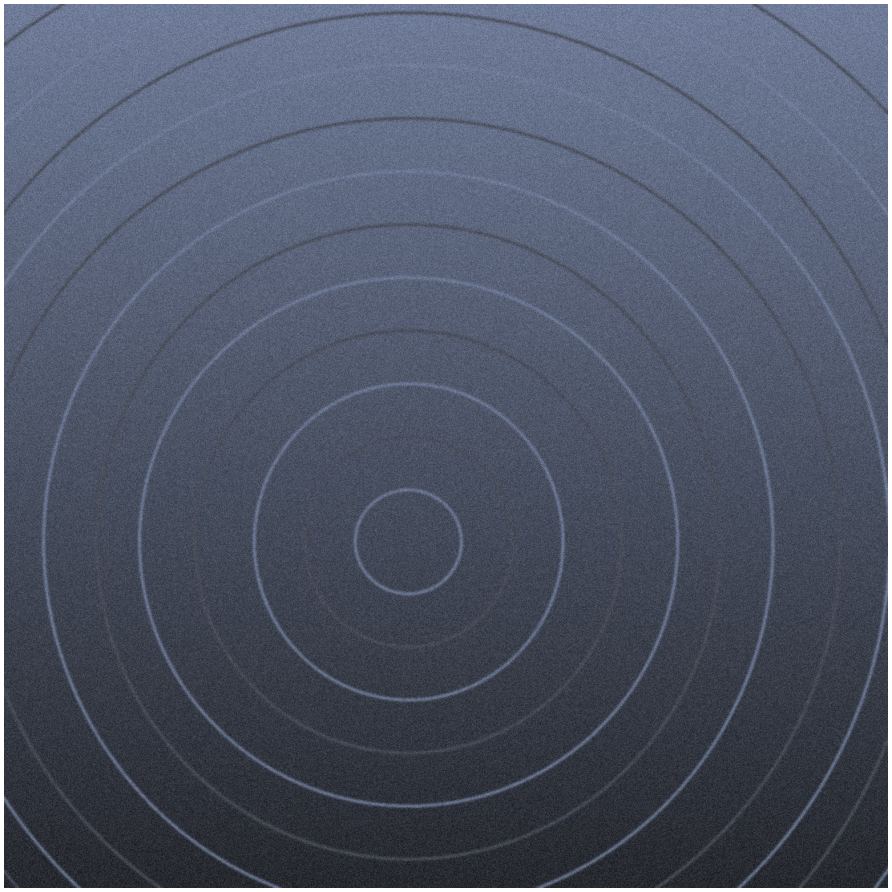
Q: Is Island Postcard good for party? A: Not really; its relaxed mood and medium energy (0.55) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Island Postcard good for sleep? A: Not really; its relaxed mood and medium energy (0.55) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Island Postcard have vocals? A: Yes: easygoing male vocal with call-and-response backing vocals.

Q: Is Island Postcard acoustic? A: Partly (acousticness 0.45).

End of song: Island Postcard



Cover art for Paper Boats: generated from its mood (sad), energy (0.30) and acousticness (0.91).

Song: Paper Boats

Artist: Juniper Hollow

Genre: folk | Mood: sad

Energy: 0.30 (low) | Tempo: 88 BPM (moderate) | Valence: 0.28 (low) | Danceability: 0.38 (low) | Acousticness: 0.91 (very high)

Description: Sparse acoustic folk: fingerpicked guitar and a fragile voice singing about letting someone go. Quiet and heartbreaking.

Sound: fingerpicked acoustic guitar, soft cello, light piano in the last chorus

Vocals: fragile, close-miked female vocal

Structure: a quiet guitar intro, three verses that grow slightly fuller, and a whispered final line

Lyric themes: Letting someone go, like folding paper boats and watching them drift away.

Listen when: heartbreak, rainy days, quiet reflection, sad moods

Skip when: you need to feel better quickly or want energy

Good for: heartbreak

Similar songs: Crossroads Blue (blues), Dusty Porch Swing (country), Moonlit Sonata Redux (classical)

Comparisons: Compared with Paper Boats, Crossroads Blue is more energetic (0.45 vs 0.30), less acoustic, blues instead of folk. Compared with Paper Boats, Dusty Porch Swing is more energetic (0.52 vs 0.30), less acoustic, nostalgic instead of sad, country instead of folk.

Listening tip: One of the saddest and most acoustic songs in the catalog (acousticness 0.91).

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Paper Boats good for studying? A: Not really; its sad mood and low energy (0.30) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Paper Boats good for workout? A: Not really; its sad mood and low energy (0.30) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

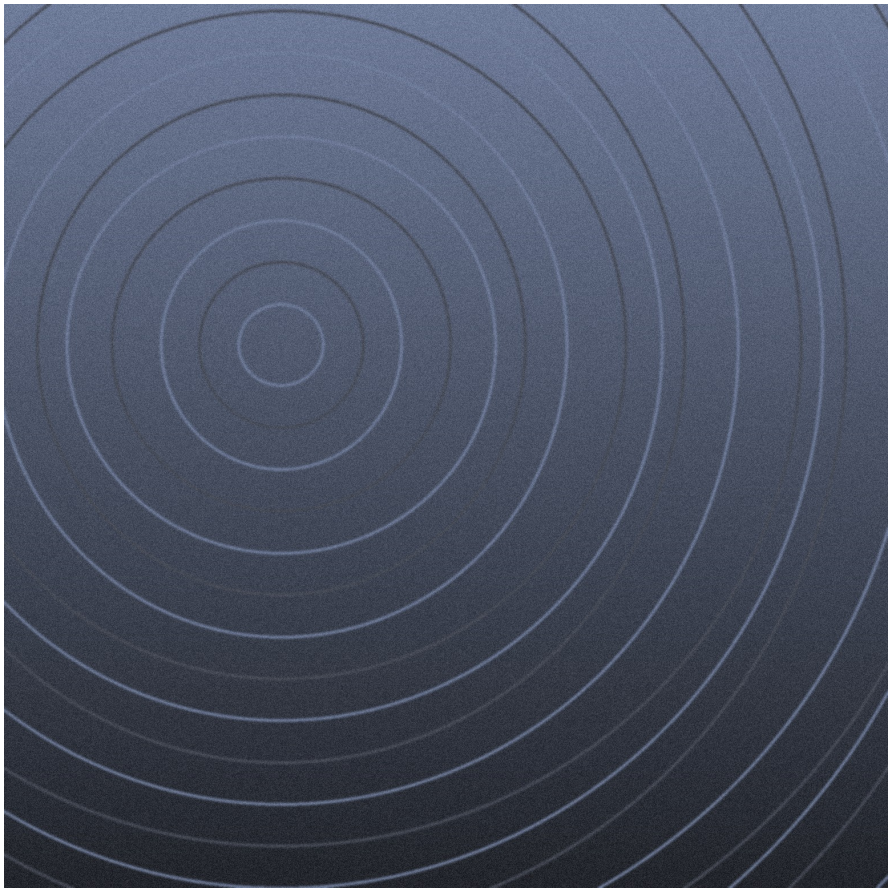
Q: Is Paper Boats good for party? A: Not really; its sad mood and low energy (0.30) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Paper Boats good for sleep? A: Not really; its sad mood and low energy (0.30) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Paper Boats have vocals? A: Yes: fragile, close-miked female vocal.

Q: Is Paper Boats acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.91).

End of song: Paper Boats



Cover art for Crossroads Blue: generated from its mood (sad), energy (0.45) and acousticness (0.62).

Song: Crossroads Blue

Artist: Eddie Lark

Genre: blues | Mood: sad

Energy: 0.45 (medium) | Tempo: 70 BPM (slow) | Valence: 0.35 (low) | Danceability: 0.50 (medium) | Acousticness: 0.62 (high)

Description: Slow electric blues with a crying lead guitar and weary vocals. Soulful sadness at a walking pace.

Sound: crying electric lead guitar, Hammond organ, walking bass, slow shuffle drums, harmonica

Vocals: weary, soulful male blues vocal

Structure: a twelve-bar blues form: three verses, a long guitar solo, and a final verse

Lyric themes: Standing at a crossroads after losing everything and deciding which way to go.

Listen when: heartbreak, late nights, sad but soulful moods, slow evenings

Skip when: you want upbeat or high-energy music

Good for: night drive, heartbreak

Similar songs: Dusty Porch Swing (country), Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Midnight Coding (lofi)

Comparisons: Compared with Crossroads Blue, Dusty Porch Swing is more energetic (0.52 vs 0.45), nostalgic instead of sad, country instead of blues. Compared with Crossroads Blue, Coffee Shop Stories is less energetic (0.37 vs 0.45), more acoustic, relaxed instead of sad, jazz instead of blues.

Listening tip: Sadder than most songs in the catalog but with more groove than the folk ballads.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Crossroads Blue good for studying? A: Not really; its sad mood and medium energy (0.45) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Crossroads Blue good for workout? A: Not really; its sad mood and medium energy (0.45) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

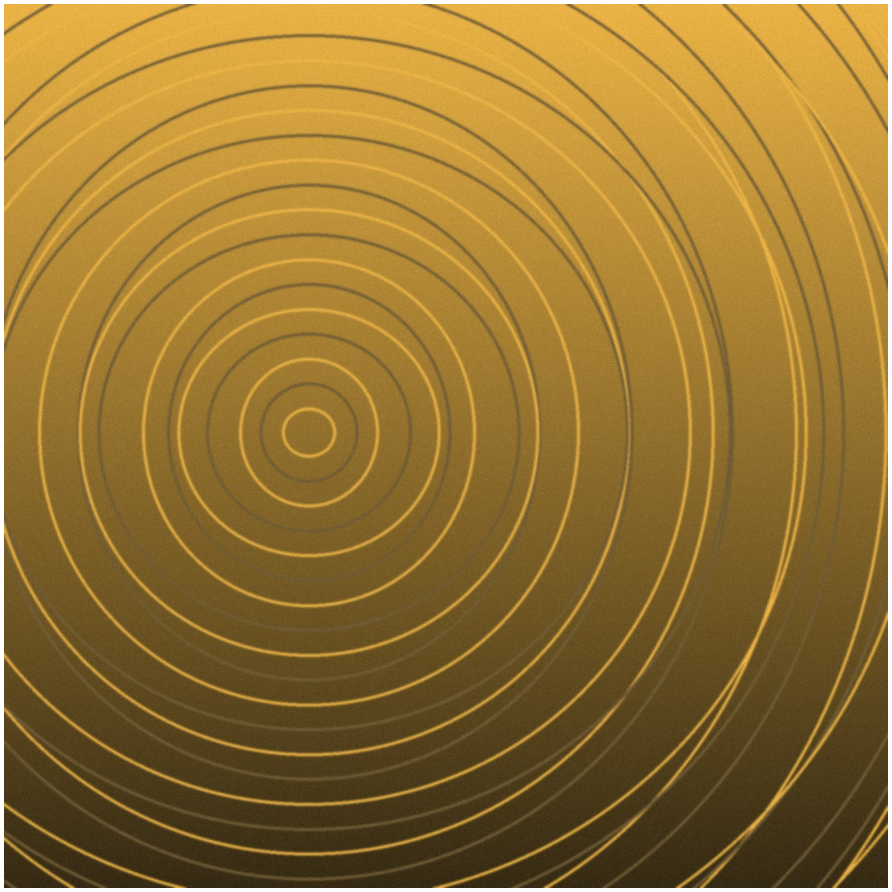
Q: Is Crossroads Blue good for party? A: Not really; its sad mood and medium energy (0.45) do not fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Crossroads Blue good for sleep? A: Not really; its sad mood and medium energy (0.45) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Crossroads Blue have vocals? A: Yes: weary, soulful male blues vocal.

Q: Is Crossroads Blue acoustic? A: Yes, mostly acoustic (acousticness 0.62).

End of song: Crossroads Blue



Cover art for Starlight Sprint: generated from its mood (happy), energy (0.88) and acousticness (0.10).

Song: Starlight Sprint

Artist: NOVA9

Genre: k-pop | Mood: happy

Energy: 0.88 (very high) | Tempo: 126 BPM (fast) | Valence: 0.90 (very high) | Danceability: 0.89 (very high) | Acousticness: 0.10 (very low)

Description: High-gloss K-pop with rapid-fire verses, a soaring chorus and a dance break. Bright, fast and relentlessly upbeat.

Sound: glossy synths, punchy electronic drums, sliding synth bass, a dance-break beat switch, layered group vocals

Vocals: group vocals with rapid-fire rap verses and a soaring sung chorus

Structure: a cold-open chorus, fast verses, a pre-chorus build, the chorus, a dance break, and a key-change final chorus

Lyric themes: Racing toward a dream under the stars, with friends cheering you on.

Listen when: parties, dancing, workouts, road trips, any time you want maximum upbeat energy

Skip when: you need calm, focus or acoustic music

Good for: party, road trip

Similar songs: Laser Bloom (edm), Sunrise City (pop), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Comparisons: Compared with Starlight Sprint, Laser Bloom is more energetic (0.95 vs 0.88), euphoric instead of happy, edm instead of k-pop. Compared with Starlight Sprint, Sunrise City is less energetic (0.82 vs 0.88), pop instead of k-pop.

Listening tip: Very happy and very high energy at the same time, a combination few other songs in the catalog have.

Questions and answers:

Q: Is Starlight Sprint good for studying? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.88) do not fit the studying target of focused mood and energy around 0.35.

Q: Is Starlight Sprint good for workout? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.88) do not fit the workout target of intense mood and energy around 0.9.

Q: Is Starlight Sprint good for party? A: Yes; its happy mood and very high energy (0.88) fit the party target of euphoric mood and energy around 0.88.

Q: Is Starlight Sprint good for sleep? A: Not really; its happy mood and very high energy (0.88) do not fit the sleep target of chill mood and energy around 0.2.

Q: Does Starlight Sprint have vocals? A: Yes: group vocals with rapid-fire rap verses and a soaring sung chorus.

Q: Is Starlight Sprint acoustic? A: No, it is mostly electronic or produced (acousticness 0.10).

End of song: Starlight Sprint

Chapter 3: Activity playlists

Each playlist below is the top 5 that VibeFinder returns (offline mode, with retrieval) for the request 'music for <activity>'.

Playlist: studying

Target: focused mood, energy about 0.35, acoustic preference yes. Steady, low-energy music without busy vocals helps people concentrate. Lofi, ambient, and classical are the usual picks.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Focus Flow	lofi / focused	0.40	3.81
2	Library Rain	lofi / chill	0.35	3.43
3	Coffee Shop Stories	jazz / relaxed	0.37	3.42
4	Spacewalk Thoughts	ambient / chill	0.28	3.35
5	Midnight Coding	lofi / chill	0.42	3.25

Playlist: workout

Target: intense mood, energy about 0.9, acoustic preference no. Fast, loud, driving music keeps a workout moving. Look for very high energy and a strong beat.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Storm Runner	rock / intense	0.91	3.94
2	Iron Tempest	metal / angry	0.97	3.38
3	Gym Hero	pop / intense	0.93	2.93
4	Laser Bloom	edm / euphoric	0.95	2.91
5	Concrete Crown	hip-hop / confident	0.78	2.76

Playlist: party

Target: euphoric mood, energy about 0.88, acoustic preference no. Party music needs high energy and danceability. Euphoric or happy songs work best.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Laser Bloom	edm / euphoric	0.95	3.88
2	Starlight Sprint	k-pop / happy	0.88	3.45
3	Sunrise City	pop / happy	0.82	3.32
4	Concrete Crown	hip-hop / confident	0.78	3.29
5	Gym Hero	pop / intense	0.93	2.90

Playlist: sleep

Target: chill mood, energy about 0.2, acoustic preference yes. For sleep, energy should be as low as possible, with soft acoustic textures and no sudden changes.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Spacewalk Thoughts	ambient / chill	0.28	3.84
2	Library Rain	lofi / chill	0.35	3.71
3	Midnight Coding	lofi / chill	0.42	3.52
4	Focus Flow	lofi / focused	0.40	3.09
5	Moonlit Sonata Redux	classical / melancholy	0.22	2.96

Playlist: road trip

Target: happy mood, energy about 0.75, acoustic preference no. Sing-along, upbeat songs with a steady pulse make long drives feel shorter.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Rooftop Lights	indie pop / happy	0.76	3.81
2	Sunrise City	pop / happy	0.82	3.81
3	Night Drive Loop	synthwave / moody	0.75	2.89
4	Starlight Sprint	k-pop / happy	0.88	2.75
5	Gym Hero	pop / intense	0.93	2.71

Playlist: night drive

Target: moody mood, energy about 0.7, acoustic preference no. Late-night driving suits moody, cinematic music with steady synth pulses.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Night Drive Loop	synthwave / moody	0.75	3.81
2	Laser Bloom	edm / euphoric	0.95	2.60
3	Velvet Hours	r&b / romantic	0.48	2.47
4	Dusty Porch Swing	country / nostalgic	0.52	1.89
5	Concrete Crown	hip-hop / confident	0.78	1.82

Playlist: heartbreak

Target: sad mood, energy about 0.35, acoustic preference yes. After a breakup people often want sad, slow, acoustic songs that match how they feel.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Paper Boats	folk / sad	0.30	3.88
2	Crossroads Blue	blues / sad	0.45	3.66
3	Moonlit Sonata Redux	classical / melancholy	0.22	3.29
4	Velvet Hours	r&b / romantic	0.48	2.50
5	Dusty Porch Swing	country / nostalgic	0.52	2.08

Playlist: dinner

Target: romantic mood, energy about 0.45, acoustic preference yes. Background music for dinner should be warm and medium-low energy so people can still talk.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Velvet Hours	r&b / romantic	0.48	3.66
2	Coffee Shop Stories	jazz / relaxed	0.37	2.82
3	Island Postcard	reggae / relaxed	0.55	2.57
4	Crossroads Blue	blues / sad	0.45	1.81
5	Focus Flow	lofi / focused	0.40	1.81

Playlist: chilling

Target: relaxed mood, energy about 0.45, acoustic preference yes. Easygoing, unhurried songs for downtime.

#	Song	Genre / mood	Energy	Score
1	Coffee Shop Stories	jazz / relaxed	0.37	3.82
2	Island Postcard	reggae / relaxed	0.55	3.57
3	Focus Flow	lofi / focused	0.40	3.31
4	Midnight Coding	lofi / chill	0.42	3.31
5	Library Rain	lofi / chill	0.35	3.28

Chapter 4: Genre guide

Genre: pop

Catchy, hook-driven songs with polished production. Pop fans usually enjoy indie pop and k-pop, which share the same bright melodies and verse-chorus structure.

Also called: pop music, top 40, mainstream | Related genres: indie pop, k-pop, edm

Catalog songs: Sunrise City, Gym Hero

Songs in related genres: Rooftop Lights (indie pop), Laser Bloom (edm), Starlight Sprint (k-pop)

Genre: indie pop

Pop melodies with a looser, more handmade sound. Often warmer and a bit more acoustic than mainstream pop.

Also called: indie, bedroom pop | Related genres: pop, folk, synthwave

Catalog songs: Rooftop Lights

Songs in related genres: Sunrise City (pop), Gym Hero (pop), Night Drive Loop (synthwave), Paper Boats (folk)

Genre: k-pop

Korean pop: high-energy, heavily produced, dance-focused, with sharp choreography-ready beats.

Also called: kpop, korean pop | Related genres: pop, edm, hip-hop

Catalog songs: Starlight Sprint

Songs in related genres: Sunrise City (pop), Gym Hero (pop), Concrete Crown (hip-hop), Laser Bloom (edm)

Genre: lofi

Mellow, dusty beats with soft piano and vinyl crackle. A classic choice for studying and focus because it has steady rhythm and no distracting vocals.

Also called: lo-fi, lo fi, lofi hip hop, study beats | Related genres: ambient, jazz, hip-hop

Catalog songs: Midnight Coding, Library Rain, Focus Flow

Songs in related genres: Spacewalk Thoughts (ambient), Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Genre: ambient

Slow, textural music without a strong beat. Very low energy; good for sleep, meditation, and deep focus.

Also called: atmospheric, drone, soundscape | Related genres: lofi, classical

Catalog songs: Spacewalk Thoughts

Songs in related genres: Midnight Coding (lofi), Library Rain (lofi), Focus Flow (lofi), Moonlit Sonata Redux (classical)

Genre: jazz

Improvised, swinging music. Low-to-medium energy jazz works well in the background for cooking, dinner, and coffee shops.

Also called: smooth jazz, coffee shop jazz | Related genres: lofi, blues, r&b

Catalog songs: Coffee Shop Stories

Songs in related genres: Midnight Coding (lofi), Library Rain (lofi), Focus Flow (lofi), Velvet Hours (r&b), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Genre: classical

Orchestral and solo piano music. Usually very acoustic and low energy; common for reading, studying, and calm evenings.

Also called: orchestral, piano, symphony | Related genres: ambient

Catalog songs: Moonlit Sonata Redux

Songs in related genres: Spacewalk Thoughts (ambient)

Genre: rock

Guitar-driven music with live drums. High-energy rock is a staple of workout playlists.

Also called: rock music, alt rock, alternative, punk | Related genres: metal, blues

Catalog songs: Storm Runner

Songs in related genres: Iron Tempest (metal), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Genre: metal

Loud, distorted, very high-energy music. Fits angry or intense moods and hard workouts.

Also called: heavy metal, metalcore | Related genres: rock

Catalog songs: Iron Tempest

Songs in related genres: Storm Runner (rock)

Genre: synthwave

Retro 80s-style synthesizers and drum machines. Moody and cinematic; a common pick for night drives.

Also called: synth, retrowave, outrun | Related genres: edm, indie pop

Catalog songs: Night Drive Loop

Songs in related genres: Rooftop Lights (indie pop), Laser Bloom (edm)

Genre: hip-hop

Rhythm and rapped vocals over beats. Confident, medium-high energy.

Also called: hip hop, hiphop, rap, trap | Related genres: r&b, lofi, k-pop

Catalog songs: Concrete Crown

Songs in related genres: Midnight Coding (lofi), Library Rain (lofi), Focus Flow (lofi), Velvet Hours (r&b), Starlight Sprint (k-pop)

Genre: r&b

Smooth vocals and grooves. Often romantic and medium-low energy.

Also called: rnb, r and b, soul, neo soul | Related genres: hip-hop, jazz

Catalog songs: Velvet Hours

Songs in related genres: Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Concrete Crown (hip-hop)

Genre: edm

Electronic dance music built for clubs: very high energy, euphoric drops, almost never acoustic.

Also called: electronic dance, house, techno, trance, dubstep | Related genres: pop, k-pop, synthwave

Catalog songs: Laser Bloom

Songs in related genres: Sunrise City (pop), Gym Hero (pop), Night Drive Loop (synthwave), Starlight Sprint (k-pop)

Genre: country

Story-driven songs with acoustic guitar and fiddle. Often nostalgic, medium energy.

Also called: country music, americana, bluegrass | Related genres: folk, blues

Catalog songs: Dusty Porch Swing

Songs in related genres: Paper Boats (folk), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Genre: folk

Acoustic, lyric-focused music. Usually low energy and very acoustic; often sad or reflective.

Also called: singer-songwriter, acoustic folk | Related genres: country, indie pop, blues

Catalog songs: Paper Boats

Songs in related genres: Rooftop Lights (indie pop), Dusty Porch Swing (country), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Genre: blues

Twelve-bar songs about hard times. Sad or soulful, low-to-medium energy.

Also called: delta blues | Related genres: jazz, rock, country

Catalog songs: Crossroads Blue

Songs in related genres: Storm Runner (rock), Coffee Shop Stories (jazz), Dusty Porch Swing (country)

Genre: reggae

Laid-back off-beat rhythm. Relaxed, sunny, medium energy; a beach and summer staple.

Also called: dub, ska | Related genres: hip-hop, r&b

Catalog songs: Island Postcard

Songs in related genres: Concrete Crown (hip-hop), Velvet Hours (r&b)

Genre: polka

Upbeat accordion dance music from Central Europe. Not in the catalog; the closest sounds are folk and country, which share the acoustic instruments and dance rhythms.

Also called: oompah | Related genres: folk, country

Catalog songs: none in the catalog; VibeFinder uses the related genres instead

Songs in related genres: Dusty Porch Swing (country), Paper Boats (folk)

Genre: latin

Danceable Latin American styles. Not in the catalog; reggae and pop share the rhythm-first feel.

Also called: reggaeton, salsa, bachata, cumbia | Related genres: reggae, pop, edm

Catalog songs: none in the catalog; VibeFinder uses the related genres instead

Songs in related genres: Sunrise City (pop), Gym Hero (pop), Laser Bloom (edm), Island Postcard (reggae)

Genre: gospel

Choir-led spiritual music. Not in the catalog; r&b and blues share its vocal style.

Also called: worship, choir | Related genres: r&b, blues

Catalog songs: none in the catalog; VibeFinder uses the related genres instead

Songs in related genres: Velvet Hours (r&b), Crossroads Blue (blues)

Chapter 5: Mood map

Songs grouped by mood family, sorted from lowest to highest energy.

Mood family: chill / focused / relaxed

Spacewalk Thoughts (chill, energy 0.28), Library Rain (chill, energy 0.35), Coffee Shop Stories (relaxed, energy 0.37), Focus Flow (focused, energy 0.40), Midnight Coding (chill, energy 0.42), Island Postcard (relaxed, energy 0.55)

Mood family: confident / euphoric / happy

Rooftop Lights (happy, energy 0.76), Concrete Crown (confident, energy 0.78), Sunrise City (happy, energy 0.82), Starlight Sprint (happy, energy 0.88), Laser Bloom (euphoric, energy 0.95)

Mood family: angry / intense

Storm Runner (intense, energy 0.91), Gym Hero (intense, energy 0.93), Iron Tempest (angry, energy 0.97)

Mood family: melancholy / moody / nostalgic / sad

Moonlit Sonata Redux (melancholy, energy 0.22), Paper Boats (sad, energy 0.30), Crossroads Blue (sad, energy 0.45), Dusty Porch Swing (nostalgic, energy 0.52), Night Drive Loop (moody, energy 0.75)

Moods outside the families

Velvet Hours (romantic, energy 0.48)

Chapter 6: Glossary

Energy: How intense and active a song feels, from 0.0 (very calm) to 1.0 (very intense). VibeFinder rewards closeness to the energy you want, not 'higher is better'.

Valence: How positive a song sounds, from 0.0 (sad, dark) to 1.0 (happy, bright).

Danceability: How suitable the rhythm is for dancing, from 0.0 to 1.0.

Acousticness: How acoustic (real instruments, unplugged) versus electronic or produced a song sounds, from 0.0 to 1.0.

Tempo (BPM): Beats per minute. Around 60-80 BPM feels slow, 90-120 moderate, 125+ fast.

Instrumental: A song with no sung or rapped vocals. Marked in this guide as 'Vocals: none (instrumental)'.

Related genre: A genre that fans of another genre usually also enjoy, taken from the VibeFinder genre notes. Related genres earn half of the genre points when ranking.

Mood family: Groups of moods that feel alike: chill/relaxed/focused, happy/euphoric/confident, intense/angry, and sad/melancholy/moody/nostalgic.

Confidence: VibeFinder's own estimate of how well it understood and matched a request (0 to 1). Below 0.5 it asks the listener for more detail.